

AIKOKU GAKUEN UNIVERSITY (愛国学園大学)

Evaluation summary

During the academic year 2016 evaluation and accreditation, Point Evaluated 2-1 “Admission of students” was judged as being unsatisfactory, as was Standard 2. “Learning and Teaching.” The University is in need of fully-fledged reforms because the fill-in rates of its total capacity are well below 50%, and it is not maintaining an appropriate number of student admissions.

However, as it was judged that it would be feasible to reform the cause of the standard deemed unsatisfactory within the space of one year, it was decided to wait for the results of the re-evaluation before making a final decision and the comprehensive judgment on the University had therefore been deferred.

With regard to Point Evaluated 2-1 for Standard 2, the results of an academic year 2018 reevaluation centering on the matters for reform pointed out in the academic year 2016 revealed that the University had taken the content of these points seriously and the points in question had been reformed. It is to be hoped that University will continue to implement continuous self-inspection and evaluation, and do its best to achieve quality assurance and reforms.
