Good practices

- Each of the departments and faculties provides detailed-oriented employment support, resulting in the highly commendable rate of one hundred percent job placement throughout the university.

Recommendations for improvement

- As the total enrollment rate in the Department of Child Education, Faculty of Child Education is below seventy percent, it is necessary to improve the situation.
- The university president alone decides whether examinees have passed the general C-schedule admission examination. This situation needs to be changed because the faculty council is not expressing any opinion regarding the selection process.
