Good practices

- The University Library with literature fully covering subjects related to clothing, the Bunka Gakuen Costume Museum that stores historically valuable clothing, and the Bunka Gakuen Fashion Resource Center have been established, and they are used in teaching and research by current students, faculty, staff, and external researchers. This initiative is worthy of high evaluation.
- Faculty and staff join in groups of ten or so at the University-wide FD (Faculty Development) and SD (Student Development) Training Workshops Subcommittee meetings to discuss matters, after which reports are used to share the discussion content among all faculty and staff. Through this initiative, exchanges of opinions going beyond status are conducted between the faculty and staff, and efforts are made to share results and achieve improvements in their disciplines. This initiative is worthy of high evaluation.
- With regard to the university's unique Self-inspection and Evaluation Report, each examining organization clearly indicates the three points: (1) Issues for the Current Academic Year, (2) Initiative Results, Inspection, and Evaluation, (3) Issues for the Next Academic Year. These are used in a complementary manner for self-inspection and evaluation activities, and a PDCA cycle is continuously functioning. These initiatives are worthy of evaluation.
